Our Student Council represents each and every student of our school. The members of the Student council are chosen by each homeroom. This person must be of high standards and maintain a B average academically.

This year a new committee has been developed from within the Student Council. This committee, the Bi-Racial Committee, hears the personal problems of each student and tries their best to help each one.

For the first time in our school's history, we have given 100% to the United Fund. This was due to the effort put out by the Student Council to prove just how great Satsuma High School is. Other projects of the Student Council are sponsoring Homecoming, checking the parking lot and running the Supply Store.

Sponsor, Mr. Harvey, inventories the stock of the Supply Store.

Beta Club Stresses Good Character

Charley Long was elected State Vice-President last year in Birmingham.

Character, honesty, leadership, scholarship, and service are the characteristics a student is judged upon before he is tapped for Beta Club membership. The Beta Club, an honorary organization, promotes these ideals among its membership, as well as among the entire student body.

The Satsuma Beta Club Convention, held in Birmingham, was attended by seven members who vigorously campaigned to help Charley win the election.

Projects for the year included keeping the trophy case clean, comprising the honor roll, and selling football programs. The club also promoted and sponsored the giving of Thanksgiving baskets and helped with taking the crippled children to the Greater Gulf State Fair.

Linda McInnis, Theresa Balsamo, and Mrs. Nell Floyd, along with other members, prepare Thanksgiving baskets for needy families.

Officers this year are Glenda Pugh, Treasurer; Linda McInnis, Secretary; Candy Fielding, President; and Theresa Balsamo, Vice-President.

Key Club Upholds Motto "We Build"

The Key Club of Satsuma High School, sponsored by Mr. Robert Imms and Mr. Hancel Holder, strives to serve its school and community. Each boy must maintain a "C" average, and have good character and leadership ability. This service group is a branch of the Chickasaw Kiwanis Club.

Working at the concession stand at ball games and distributing books are among the club's many activities. The Key Club also sponsors Southern assemblies for the student's enjoyment. It is the duty of each member to live up to the motto, "We Build".

Cayman Presents New Look of Elegance

Annual sponsor, Mr. Jim Coats, discusses selling of annuals with Circulation Editor, Bill Wilson.

JUST ANOTHER CAYMAN?

A new book . . . a different approach . . . a new conception of organization . . . utilization of local talent . . . a personal touch . . . individuality . . . superb aesthetic qualities . . . distinction . . . zest . . . life!

These things made up the basic goals of the 1970 Cayman. The staff tried to present a new, exciting and different yearbook. This gave the book a warmer and more personal appearance. The staff tried to comprise these thoughts and ideas into a great yearbook filled with memories of the year gone by.

Co-Editors, Betty Langley and Rita Baker, share their opinions on new layout design with Assistant Editor, Theresa Balsamo.

Photographer, Carl Bretzman, demonstrates the use of the light meter, with Wayne Reed, assistant photographer.

Gator Gazette—Vital to Student Life

Betsy Anderton, Editor, and Mrs. Carolyn Owens, Sponsor, discuss plans for the Gazette's next issue.

"Extra! Extra! Read all about it"—This could have been the Satsuma High School student newspaper—"The Gator Gazette."

The Gazette, which relates the happenings and opinions of the campus to the students, is a vital part of the school. Just as the purpose of the school is to educate students, so the Gazette "educates students" with its coverage of campus activities—academic, social, and athletic.

This year, as in the past, the Gazette has kept the student body informed and up-to-date by means of articles, editorials, and pictures. It is produced for students, by students, and all articles are uncensored. The staff does not shrink from controversy or criticism; it digs for facts and gets facts.

"He who doesn't attempt great things, doesn't accomplish great things." This was the motto of the Spanish Club this year.

Some of the activities were initiation of new members, guest speakers, and an annual Christmas party. This year the Christmas party was held internationally with the French Club. All these activities were supervised by Mrs. Peggy Bray, Sponsor.

The main purpose of the French Club is to promote the learning of the customs and culture of the French people. The members of the club strive toward this goal with the help of Mrs. Alice Swindle, sponsor. This year the Satsuma French Club proudly joined the National French Club.

The French Club promotes such school activities as the Powder Puff Football game and the sale of Homecoming corsages. With the profit the members this year again enjoyed touring the French quarters of New Orleans.

The Inter-Club Council is composed of the presidents of each organization on campus. The Council functions as the co-ordinating body of the school's clubs and also sponsors inter-related club projects. One of the primary projects sponsored this year was the collection of toys for needy children at Christmas.

Kenny McWain, president, and Mr. Alton Harvey, sponsor, discuss some Inter-Club Council business in preparation for a meeting.

1969-70 Homecoming Queen

The 1969-70 Homecoming was one which the students of Satsuma High School can never forget. The field was full of excitement, lovely girls, smiling escorts and vivacious cheerleaders.

Junior High Cheerleaders Show Enthusiasm

With pom poms in hands, the six spirited girls pose for the Cayman Photographer.

Six enthusiastic eighth and ninth grade girls comprised the 1969-1970 Junior High Cheerleader Squad. Full of vitality and enthusiasm, they attended all football, basketball, and baseball games. Smiling faces and eager yells were two of their most noted characteristics.

This year, the squad was proud to have Mrs. Pat Hicks as their new sponsor, who dutifully provided transportation to all away games, and gave helpful guidance.

During a time out at a basketball game, they hurriedly lead a cheer.

The Pep Club is organized to promote school spirit throughout the year. Each member shows loyalty to the club by supporting the team through victory and defeat. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Dee Capps the club strives to support all school activities by making spirit banners and cheering.

Pep Club, Band Promote School Spirit

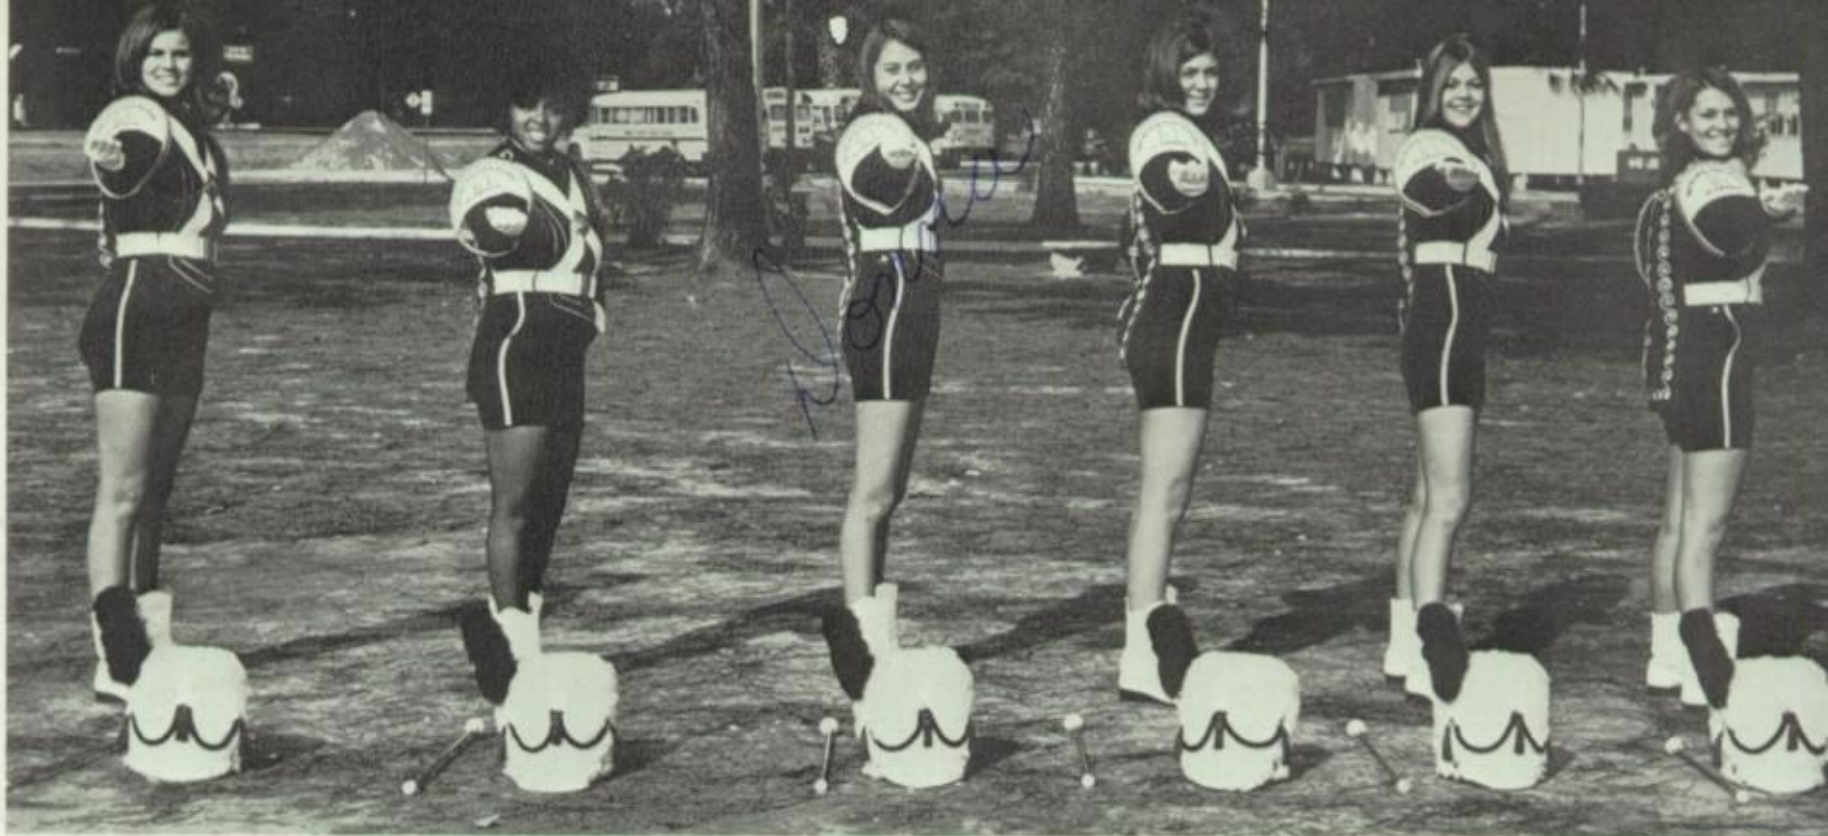

The gun goes off, and out marches the award winning Satsuma High School Band. The halftime show of a football game is super hi-lighted by the foot-tapping sound that emerges from the 48 musicians on the field. Popular sounds of today, like Scarborough Fair and The Horse, are mingled with some oldies but goodies.

The new uniforms, purchased from money raised by the band members, show the added determination and goals the band has set for this year. For their work they were awarded a first-place trophy in their division and were chosen from local competition to compete at state for the first time in the band's history.

Two new additions to the band this year are the six majorettes, led by Miss Marshella Taylor and the two twirlers, Misses Deborah Johnson and Sandy Miller. Also, for the first time in our school history, we have a girl Drum Majorette, Miss Anita McGill. These girls add to the fine group of students directed by Thomas Shuler.

The Majorettes are: Sherry Jesse, Frances Cowan, Donna Teaford, Carol Squires, Beverly Squires, Marshella Taylor.

Deborah Johnson and Sandy Miller add their twirling ability to the band.

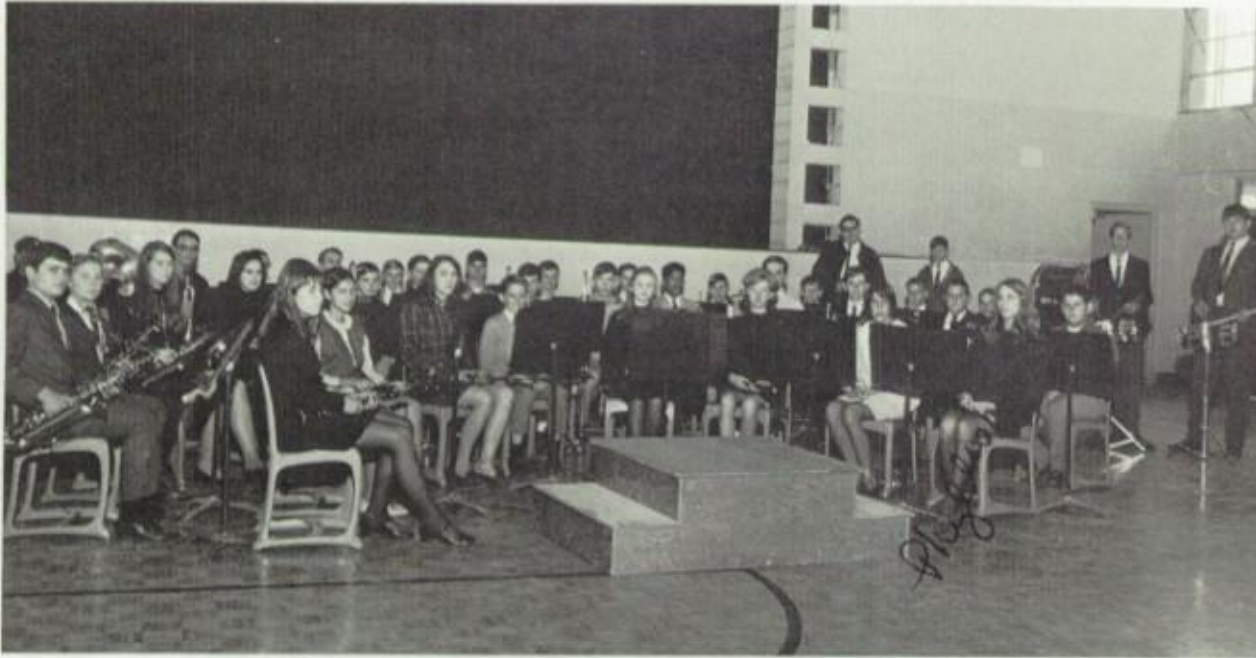

Anita McGill was selected to be Drum Majorette on the basis of skill.

Providing a new interesting style of music for the student body was the Glee Club's main goal this year. Both A and B glee clubs spent many tedious hours of practice, before and after school to present the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas concerts. The A Glee Club once again was chosen from county competition to compete in the State Music competition held at Tuscaloosa each year. The B Glee Club this year presented a special Christmas program at the City Hall in Saraland. Members of the glee clubs were selected on the basis of tone of voice, ability to read music, and their interest in the art.

The halftime celebration of homecoming for the junior high was anxiously awaited. The identity of the queen from the ninth grade was announced. Along with the victory over Citronelle, the junior high students created a memorable homecoming.

The climax of the activities came when a dance was held in the gym. Leading the others in the first dance were the queen, her escort, and the rest of the court. This was the first year the junior high was able to have a dance, and with the success of this one there will surely be others in the future.

Nancy Goodrich, 1969 Junior High Homecoming Queen, was crowned by last year's queen, Sheila Christian.

Queen Nancy Goodrich was escorted by Dwight Sawyer.

First Lady, Ren Willingham, was escorted by Jan Germany.

girls welcome visitors to our town and take part in many of the city's activities. The graceful antebellum dresses and parasols add to the picture of Southern charm that these girls portray.

V.I.P.'s Excel in Various Activities

The V.I.P.'s, as their elaborate name suggests, represent the outstanding persons in our school in all aspects of school life. The quality and capability of the V.I.P.'s were at an amazing high this year as many came out to prove their worthiness. Their abilities were demonstrated in sports where records were broken and player of the week was named. In citizenship, concerned students proudly participated in speeches and oral discussions. Awards did not stop here, though. Homemaker of the year was awarded and several girls got on a teenboard. All in all, it was not a bad year for the V.I.P.'s.

During Appreciation Week, sponsored by the Optimist Club, students became involved with the rigors of government work. SEATED on the left are Satsuma's Council: Edna Henson, Marty Floyd, Mark Howell, Kenny McWain, Kathy Brown, and Mindy RESERVE TWO FOR MURDER opens with a play-within-the-play, supposed to be set five hundred years in the future. As this play-within-a-play begins to unfold, the theatre is suddenly plunged into complete darkness and one of the actors is shot and killed by somebody sitting in the audience. From this point, the plot gathers astonishing speed and takes in its stride any number of weird and chilling developments—including a second murder by poison, a corpse that vanishes and then makes its reappearance in the rear of the darkened auditorium, a disclosure that operatives of a sinister spy ring are present at the theatre, and others. The mystery is finally unravelled by two detectives who have come to see the performance.

Right: The Junior Play, RESERVE TWO FOR MURDER, proved to be hard work for everyone, including prompters and make-up people.

Junior, Senior Plays Add Suspense, Mystery

Pointing his finger with authority, Gudgeon, head butler, scolds Doris, under-housemaid.

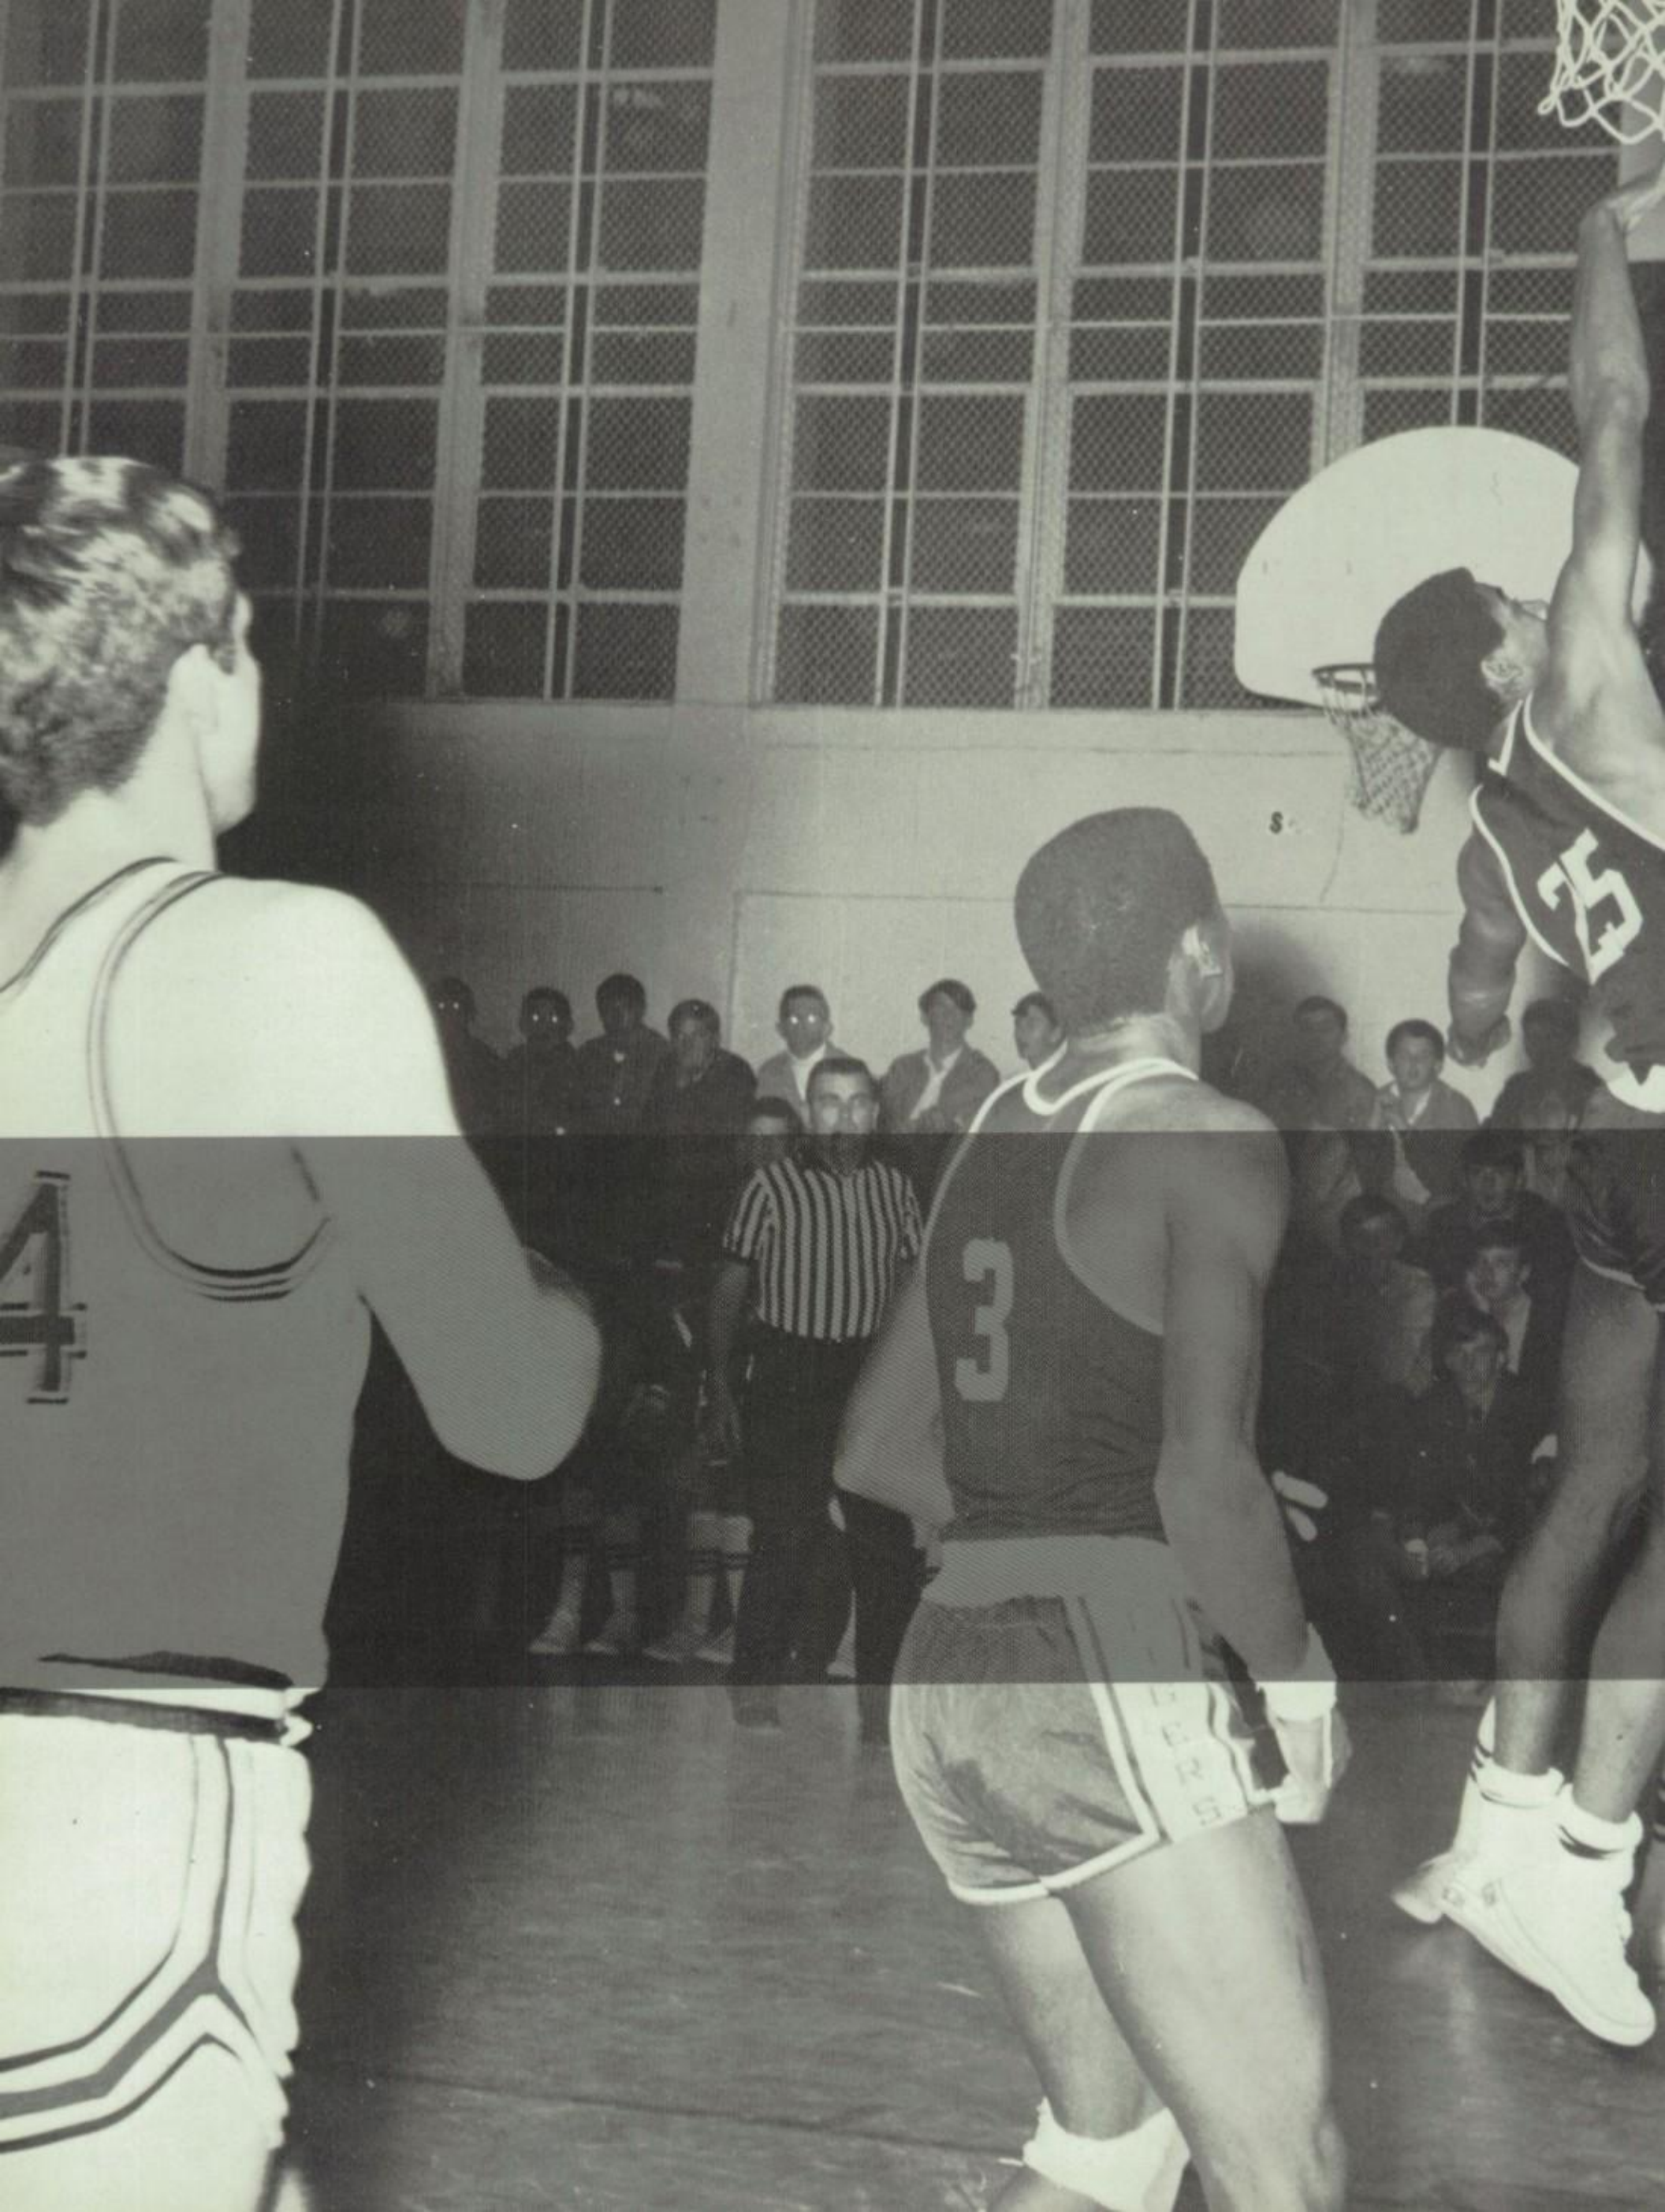

Edward Angkatell gallantly proposed marriage to shy Midge Harvey.

The setting? THE HOLLOW, the aristocratic Angkatells' country home located near London. The time? a spring weekend designated for house guests. The event? the murder of John Cristow, philandering doctor. These ingredients are so cleverly shifted by Agatha Christie that no solution seems possible. Indeed, three women appear equally involved in the crime: Gerda Cristow, the somewhat stupid wife; Veronica Craye, once Cristow's mistress but now a flamboyant actress; and Henrietta Angkatell, wealthy sculptress as current paramour. But when death almost strikes twice, the finger of guilt points directly to the killer.

Top: Miss Atchison looks on as Inspector Colquhoun, with the aid of Sergeant Penny, questions a suspect, Henrietta Angkatell. Bottom: While embracing, Doctor Cristow and Veronica Craye are surprised by Sir Henry and his wife.

More important, the girls exemplify spirit and sportsmanship, a characteristic of every good athlete.

Mr. Faulk Joins Students in Expressing Free Spirit

This year completes Mr. Robert E. Faulk's seventh year as Satsuma High School's principal. During his administration our school has progressed in many fields. To meet the growing demands for facilities, the parking lot and driveway were expanded and the office was divided into separate offices. Increasing the student's convenience and learning ability, new equipment has been added to the Math, Physical Education, and Mechanical Drawing Departments. Mr. Faulk oversees these improvements while coordinating the diverse work of teachers, guidance counselor, and assistant principal. His efforts have resulted in the efficient operation of the school.

Mr. Faulk is proud of Satsuma and considers himself a part of the school, joining in and backing the students in the school's activities, sports and the personal achievements of the students.

Mr. John Morgan, Assistant Principal, gives the daily morning announcements.

Mr. Morgan Supports School Activities

Mr. John A. Morgan became a part of Satsuma High School as the assistant principal three years ago. During this time he has been instrumental and concerned with many phases of the school program. As assistant principal, his chief concern is discipline. Discipline must be controlled in order for the school to run smoothly. Among his other tasks are scheduling, making the daily announcements, supervising attendance and the issuing of text books. These duties are met vigorously by Mr. Morgan with a sense of responsibility and understanding of the students to gain the cooperation of the student body as well as the faculty.

Mr. John Morgan and students cheer the basketball team to victory.

Freedom to Seek Solutions

Math, today, is one of the most challenging subjects a student can undertake. If he is to be an educated member of our automated society, he must have a strong background in math. Math also provides for acquiring orderly working habits and increasing one's ability to grasp the basic ideas and concepts of word problems while also advancing in its basic fundamentals.

General math, algebra, geometry, and analysis comprise the mathematics department, providing good college preparation.

Analysis student, Norma Hopkins, finds that difficult problems are not uncommon.

Freedom to Explore Past, Present, Future

Alabama History, Civics, American History, World History, Psychology, Economics, and American Government compose the Social Science department. Regular classes and accelerated classes are offered to the students. These classes are a combination of studying past history and studying the problems which face us today, thus helping the student to reach opinions while we learn from yesterday's mistakes. They help to stimulate clear thinking, which is most important if we are to be the leaders of tomorrow, and to make us realize that the world does not go around as simply as some may think.

Freedom to Build Healthy Bodies

The objective of the Physical Education Department is building strong, healthy, and physically fit bodies. New equipment such as the parallel bars, balance beam, rings, and horizontal bar, along with the old is helping to accomplish this purpose. Physical Education plays its role along with the academic subjects by teaching participation and the idea that mental alertness results from physical fitness.

Freedom to Communicate

In order to meet different language needs, the English Department, composed of ten teachers, offers three types of courses: regular English, advanced English, and English Composition. Advanced English, regular English taught on an accelerated scale, is offered to those with a higher learning ability and English Composition, dealing mainly in expressing one's self, is recommended to seniors planning to attend college.

After a five-year study of the language at his own level, each student, consequently, should be able to communicate successfully with society.

Many seniors look upon their senior year as definitely their last, but to some it is only the tomorrow of the rest of their life. But terms cannot define the emotions and feelings of the senior's last year. To each person his experiences as a senior are totally different.

In keeping with the trends of today, the Senior Class chose as their class flower, the rose—a symbol of love. Also selected by the seniors were the colors crimson and white. During class meetings new styles of invitations were selected and seniors placed their order on January 14. To express their view on life the Seniors chose a well-known motto, "Live today as if you'll die tomorrow, but plan as if you will live forever."

The finalization of the seniors year and fulfillment of one dream came with graduation on May 22.

The juniors, in a busy year, challenged one of Satsuma High's oldest traditions by receiving their senior rings at the end of their junior year. This was accomplished through the cooperative efforts of both class representatives and the administration.

With the responsibility of the junior and senior prom weighing on their shoulders, the juniors propelled into the limelight by providing a change in the prom. This year the juniors were the host, not only for a dance, but for a banquet also financed primarily by the sale of magazine subscriptions.

Even though the juniors were busy with new and exciting transitions, their class play, RESERVE TWO FOR MURDER, was most successful. The cast, consisting of only a few creative students, reflects the efficiency and vitality of the whole class.

Two hundred and eighty-two of them invaded our peaceful campus in September. While the upper classmen would rather forget this occurrence, it had to happen. This event was the arrival of the sophomores.

Sophomores were expected to make the high school scene somewhat unnoticed. They arrived with mixed sentiments—excitement and anxiety, independence and inadequacy, but primarily with anticipation. They struggled through the halls with their beloved geometry books and with a stack of assignments. After a couple of months they settled down. And, incidentally, they learned.

Exciting new activities intrigued 355 curious freshmen as they entered their first year of high school. Taking an active part in club, band, and athletic events led the freshmen to consider themselves an active and integral part of the school. The highlight of the year, for most freshmen was the planning of and participation in the junior high homecoming dance and activities.

As the freshmen became aware of the increasing difficulty of high school, the joy of advancement to the tenth grade stimulated many students to achieve outstanding grades and awards. Despite the immense competitive atmosphere in a maturing high school, the average student learned to seek and find his identity in life.

This year the eighth graders became the underclassmen of the entire school. Formerly, this had been a position held by the seventh grade class, but due to a transfer of the seventh grade to nearby Nelson Adams School, things were different in 1969-70.

In the course of regular events, the eighth graders experienced taking the much-dreaded California Achievement Tests, electing class officers, and choosing class favorites. A new event, in which many eighth graders were happy to take a part, was the junior high homecoming dance held after an exciting Satsuma victory in the annual junior high homecoming football game. Judging from these events, the "lowest-classmen" had an extremely busy and enjoyable year.

The businesses of our community have shown continued interest and support in the education of the area's youth. Their investments in the annual help the school to produce a book that is of immeasurable value to the students. Since the students influence a large part of the local clientele, these investments however, are not simply donations. They are of significant benefit to the businesses they represent.

Used and spent—now just litter.

A face in the crowd

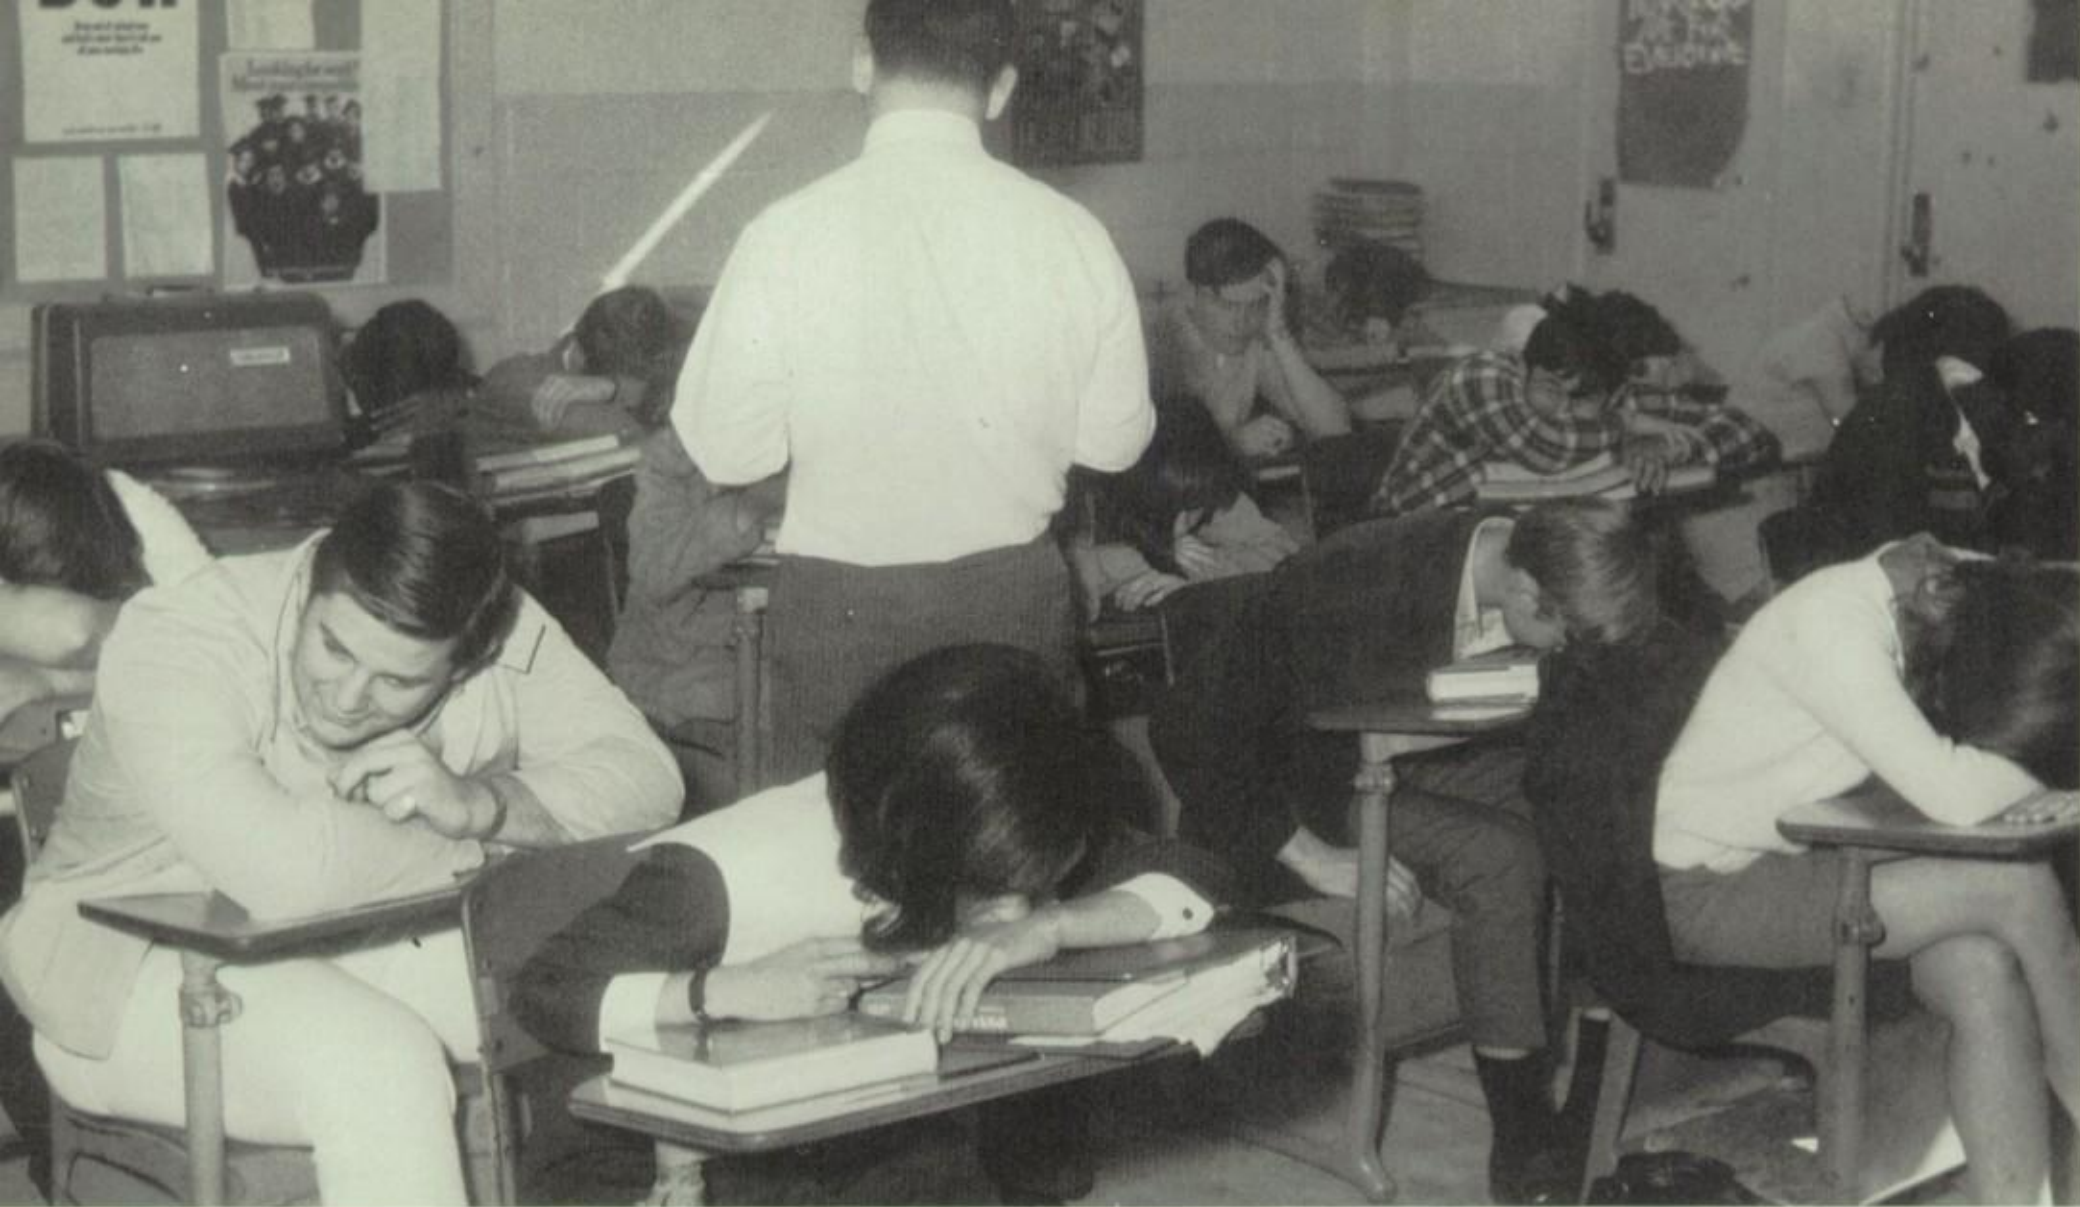

"Accomplishments?"

After a full nine months, students often stop and think, "Just what have I accomplished?" Accomplishments come in big and small packages—to the Seniors, graduation; to the freshmen, the honor of being a sophomore; to the Varsity sportsman, the treasured letter is awarded, and with a crown, a beauty is recognized. How can we acknowledge all the truly good deeds? Our jobs require more concentration on the school's great honors, but what about the boy that caught that huge catfish during the summer, or the girl that sewed her whole school wardrobe? How can we give credit where credit is due? Americans walked on the moon, and scientists proved that hampshires breathe underwater, but yet we busy our lives with football scores and test grades, not really considering the big accomplishments. Maybe we should stop and ask, "Just how have I helped make some accomplishments?" If you have any answer, be it little or small, somebody thanks you.

"Sign of the times"

Students wait for the end of another boring class period.

After the school year ends, students head for the beaches.

Talented student demonstrates twelve years of hard work.
